BOMBS DROPPED ON ITALIAN SHIP

Chinese Offer Redress for Shelling of American Ship

(By Associated Press)
SHANGHAI, Aug. 31.—United States authorities closed the port of Shanghai today to all American ships except naval vessels while the second air attack on a mercy ship in two days increased the peril to civilian life at sea in Chinese waters.

An air bomber of unknown identity power-dived and bombed the Italian operated steamer Lung Shan, a 2,278-ton liner thronged with Chinese refugees. It created much panic but caused no damage.

The ship was bombed near Wusung, north of Shanghai, where the Whangpoo and Yangtze rivers flow together for the embattled city's only waterway—and only avenue of escape—to the sea.

Asks Foreign Intervention
Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, virtual civil and military commander of war-time China, in effect, demanded immediate foreign intervention to end the hostilities.

NAGASAKI, Japan, Aug. 31.—Commander Kaoru Fujita obtained a divorce from his bride of three months when he was ordered to the Chinese war front. He did not want thoughts of his young wife and his home to detract him from wholehearted attention to duty.

His family was notified officially today he had been killed in action in North China.

Chiang warned at Nanking that "Japanese aggression" to establish a continental empire for herself is a threat not only to the sovereignty of China but also the "international safety."

The attack of the Italian ship followed by a day the bombing of the United States Dollar liner President Hoover by Chinese planes in the China sea off the Yangtze estuary.

Chinese officials have accepted responsibility and have offered redress for the attack in which a seaman was killed, others injured and passengers injured and the ship's hull pierced by shrapnel.

On the Shanghai waterfront, Japanese forces captured Wusung, 12 miles north of Shanghai, at the outset of a "big push" against the city's Chinese troops.

A terrific bombardment, which resounded through the international areas, evidently was the first phase of the developing offensive through the Kiangwan sector.

Shanghai's "back door" to the north, Japanese officers said Shanghai's north station was bombed.

Chinese Driven From Homes
Before the devastating fire of planes and heavy artillery began, the Japanese army and foreign police combined forces to drive 12,000 bewildered Chinese from their homes in the Hongkew and Yangtze districts on Shanghai's north side.

The frightened populace resisted, at first. They fled, however, when Japanese police convinced them they had a choice between flight and death.

Japan's action in warning the native population of an impending attack was believed to have been inspired by sharp reaction abroad against sudden Japanese attacks in which thousands of noncombatant Chinese have been killed or maimed.

Bombs Hit U. S. Rescue Liner

The President Hoover

Returning from Manila to Shanghai to evacuate Americans trapped in the war-torn city, the Dollar Liner President Hoover was bombed by Chinese planes as it neared the junction of the Yangtze and Whangpoo rivers not far from the former Chinese capital. Seven members of the crew and three of the 257 passengers were injured. It was believed the Chinese airmen mistook the ship for a Japanese troop transport in the dusk.

First House Here To Be Preserved Park Site Sought

Civic Leaders Consider
Plans To Save Historic Structure

Salem's first house—a log cabin—will be preserved.

This was practically a certainty today as members of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, as well as other civic leaders, debated a proposed plan to remove the house to a permanent place in Centennial park.

While not officially approached on the matter, the park commission, however, is expected to give its approval to the plan.

W. H. Dunn of S. Lincoln ave., owner of the property on which the old house stands, has offered to give the landmark free for the purpose of preservation.

The old log cabin, now concealed by weatherboarding of comparatively modern vintage, is on the west end of a filling station on W. State st., just off Ellsworth ave. Dunn plans to enlarge the filling station property.

On the Shanghai waterfront, Japanese forces captured Wusung, 12 miles north of Shanghai, at the outset of a "big push" against the city's Chinese troops.

WOMAN KILLED BY FAST TRAIN

Miss Mary McIntosh, 76,
Victim In Salineville
Accident

LISBON, Aug. 31.—Miss Mary McIntosh, 76, of near Salineville, was instantly killed when she stepped in front of a west-bound Pennsylvania railroad passenger train at Haiti crossing, just south of Salineville, at 8:15 p. m. Monday.

A boy, Pete Kennedy, said he saw Miss McIntosh sitting on the east bound track and then saw her arise and walk down the other track on which the train approached. She apparently became confused.

Her skull was fractured and she also received multiple limb fractures. Coroner Arnold Devan ruled "accidental death."

Miss McIntosh, who lived with two unmarried sisters at their farm home, three and one-half miles south of Salineville, had been shopping at the village in the afternoon.

She carried a basket of groceries and a purse containing $20 when killed.

The funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the home. Burial will be in Monroeville cemetery.

THOMAS A. JONES, SUPREME COURT JURIST, IS DEAD

Veteran Ohio Judge Succumbs In Columbus;
79 Years Old

GOVERNOR DAVEY TO FILL VACANCY

Appointment Expected to Create Democratic Majority

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Aug. 31.—Judge Thomas A. Jones of the Ohio supreme court died today. He was 78 years old and had been in failing health for several months.

A resident of Jackson, O., when he was first elected to the court in 1914, he had made his home in Columbus for many years.

Judge Jones came to Ohio's highest court after serving 14 years on the fourth district court of appeals.

He had continued actively on the supreme court through the last decision day before the tribunal recessed for the summer, and participated in its final decisions.

Democratic Majority Seen
The death of Judge Jones, a Republican, paved the way for a Democratic majority in the supreme court, Governor Davey being expected to name a member of his own party to the vacancy.

Until the time of Judge Jones' death, four Republicans and three Democrats were members of the court. The other Republicans are Justices Edward S. Mathias, Roy Williams and Arthur H. Day, while the Democratic members are Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt, Charles B. Zimmerman and George S. Myers.

Judge Jones won distinction for his dissenting opinion, which eventually was supported by the majority, holding that special assessment bonds were a general obligation of a county.

Bonds for a sewer district in Allen county were defaulted early in the depression, and the county disavowed liability for payment.

The majority of the court ruled that the bonds were not a county obligation but Judge Jones' vigorous dissent became the basis for granting a re-hearing.

Court Reverses Itself
The court then reversed itself and held with Judge Jones. Its ruling, subsequently was affirmed by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Judge Jones also was one of the first high jurists to hold that the legislature was the sole judge for the necessity of attaching to a new law an emergency clause—making it effective immediately instead of after a 90-day referendum period.

When the issue was first raised, about 15 years ago, he was in the minority in that view but the court held with him when the question

The threshing was saved. The loss was estimated at $3,500.

800 Years Of Tradition Behind Saxon Songs

"Siebenbuergen" Brings Memories; "America", Hope For Future

Sunday and Monday, the Salem Maennerchor, with all other local Saxon organizations cooperating, will be host to the Seventh Biennial Saengerfest of the Transylvania Saxon Saengerbund.

Thousands of Saxon and German people will be on hand for two days to revel in the music they love in the rustic surroundings of the Saxon Country club on the New-garden rd.

Compete for Honors
Twenty-seven singing organizations will compete for the coveted honors in singing in the first day's concert, while on the second day all organizations will join to sing under the direction of Jacob Faust, director of the Salem maennerchor.

Contrary to general belief, the Saxon people do not come from Saxony, a part of Germany. Rather they hail from towns and villages cause we love to; because we realize that America has become cultural, tolerant, great, because each nationality group has given to America the best it can give.

Live American Lives
We are trying to project ourselves into every phase of American life, and we think we are doing well, when you consider that there are only 50 or 60 thousand Saxon souls throughout this land."

When the Saengerfest draws to a close and the strains of "Siebenbuergen," the Transylvania Saxon anthem, echo through the trees of the Saxon Country club, there may be some tears, for in memory the same strains will echo through the Transylvanian hills.

But the tears will pass, and full, satisfied hearts will sing "America," for once again they will have given their bit to American culture.

Farr's Stand Against Louis Surprises Sports World

Unexpected action such as pictured thrilled the crowd that saw Joe Louis defend his newly won heavyweight title against Tommy Farr, challenger from Wales, in 15 rounds in Yankee stadium. With awkward but courageous onslaughts, Farr carried the fight to the champion time after time, winning a tribute of applause from the spectators, most of whom had expected to see the Welshman knocked out in an early round. Farr is shown landing a left in the region of Louis' heart.

REPORT SEVEN KILLED AS BUS IS HIT BY CAR

Ohio Automobile Crashes
Into Transport Bus
Near Goshen, Ind.

MANY INJURED GO TO HOSPITALS

Witnesses Say Big Sedan Drove Into Bus at Intersection

(By Associated Press)
GOSHEN, Ind., Aug. 31.—At least seven persons were reported to have been killed five miles north of here today in a crash of a heavily loaded transport bus and a sedan. Twenty injured were brought to hospitals here and at least 15 others were reported to have been taken to nearby cities.

Three of the dead were identified as A. G. Carpenter of Iowa City, Ia.; Mrs. James Kelleher of Albany, N. Y., and Raymond J. Buskin of St. Louis.

Carpenter and Mrs. Kelleher were passengers and Buskin was an attendant on the bus.

The accident occurred at the intersection of roads 20 and 15. Witnesses said the sedan drove onto the main highway and crashed into the bus. The vehicle overturned and came to a stop on its top. The sedan was demolished and the bus was damaged badly.

There were about 40 passengers on the bus.

The occupants of the sedan were unknown. A card was found in it, however, bearing the name "Allison Bishopric Manufacturing company, Cincinnati, O." The license plates were Ohio 114AB.

The driver of the bus was Lee Callahan, 32, of Toledo.

The bus was bound from Chicago to Cleveland.

Ambulances from Goshen and Elkhart were rushed to the scene and the dead and injured were hurried to hospitals, making immediate identification difficult.

REAL "REALISM"

Japan has applied its famous "realism" to China with an explosive vengeance—and consequences which threaten to cause more sorrow than rejoicing.

There is another kind of "realism" which Americans hope may dictate the actions of their government—a more real outlook that never would permit aviators to attack the representative of a friendly foreign power in the mistaken belief he was a Chinese leader, as Japanese airmen did last week, or a liner evacuating Americans as Chinese planes did yesterday. It would not find an excuse for waging an undeclared war, or for slaughtering helpless civilians in Shanghai under the pretext of punishing Chinese soldiers. It is a "realism" which looks to the ultimate effect of bloodshed and destruction as well as to the aiming of guns and the dropping of bombs.

Americans hope and pray that their statesmen may be guided by this latter kind of "realism." Responsibility must be concentrated in a few hands during a crisis. It may be abused as easily as it may be used wisely. In Washington, in London, in Tokyo, in Nanking, Paris, Berlin, Rome and Moscow a little group of fallible men are determining the destiny of their generation and generations yet unborn. The realist "realism" is that which will restrain men from bloodshed and waste, not encourage them.

UNQUENCHABLE HOPE

Movie makers, publicity departments announce, will be ready for golden opportunity again this fall with an assortment of seasonal college pictures.

The titles suggest what they're going to be like—something about blocking that kick and life beginning on the campus. Next to newspapermen, collegians get the worst misrepresentation in the incurable romances of Hollywood are capable of—and the sky's the limit.

It stands to reason, though, that college pictures make money, or they wouldn't be produced. Why, then, do they make money?

It's because of unquenchable hope. Youngsters gaze at the movie version of the campus because they want it to be that way if they ever get there. Collegians are attracted because they wanted it to be that way and aren't ready yet to admit that it isn't. Ex-collegians go to see them because they are far enough removed to believe it almost was that way, and non-collegians, probably, turn out so they can be thankful for what they missed.

Shrewd men, these Hollywoodians.

STRAINED INTERLUDE

Shaving soap and razor manufacturers tossed in their sleep after seeing a picture of Larry Kelley, former Yale football star, wearing a beard.

Kelley's a fine looking brot of a man anyway, and his whiskers don't need any more apology than his ability to catch forward passes. A sigh for the good old days wheezed from Key West to Seattle and Bangor to Los Angeles at the sight.

But there's a rub to the beard business these days which keeps the anti-beard business in a state of perpetual prosperity. It's the fact that a beard has to be grown, whisker by whisker, a sixteenth of an inch at a time.

In a beardless country, that's too much to endure.

The goatie isn't worth the scandal. Even Kelley's beard was raised in Europe, where a man without a shave is merely a man with a beard, or the beginning of one.

THERE'S A LAW ABOUT IT

A Boston terrier pup is the latest victim of the human race's well known thoughtlessness. The pup passed out in a Cleveland parking lot after being shut up inside a sedan parked in the sun.

There may be some slight excuse for leaving a dog in a parked car with the windows closed, but how about a baby? What's to be done with persons who lock up their own children to suffocate by degrees while they enjoy an interval of freedom from responsibility? Sure they do it.

There's one sure-fire cure. Fortunately, there's a law about closed cars parked in the sun—a natural law. They get hotter than blazes inside. Half an hour of it should convince the most thoughtless person that it's a poor place for pups, babies, kittens, himself or what have you?

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—Writing is the only calling I know that has innumerable successful practitioners who honestly loathe it. Arthur Somers Roche, who turned out such exciting mystery stories, would seize upon any excuse to delay the actual telling of his yarn.

Every magazine editor has several top flight stars who have to be constantly cuddled and coaxed to do their stuff. It is not laziness, for they will chop wood, cut grass or anything to avoid it. Sometimes they will delay until actually hungry.

Irvin Cobb detests the business but used to don the figurative hair shirt every day from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. Edna Ferber shies from the typewriter until the very last moment and then grudgingly turns in what is usually a swell performance. Ditto, Gelett Burgess.

Sinclair Lewis is all enthusiasm discussing a story but the actual getting on the job is self torture. Theodore Dreiser regards writing as the hardest drudgery. Somerset Maugham is always telling his friends that his most recent story will be his last. And so it goes.

Janette Hackett, the dancer and wife of John Steel, the singer, after a sabbatical season in Long Beach, came to town the other day and in prowling around Times Square came upon these two window signs:

No. 1: A strawberry soda—built around the biggest blushing berries ever picked. Good thick slices all through lots of ice cream and brimming with fresh effervescence.

No. 2: Banana splits—peaks of frothy ice cream, hemmed in by mellow ripe banana halves. Flooded with rivers of smooth, syrupy, chocolate capped, with snowy whipped cream.

Miss Hackett had expected to spend the entire day in town but fled to her roadster and cracked a few speed laws getting back to Long Beach—only stopping en route to snaffle a plain hamburger with onions.

In his recent fast selling autobiography, "Before I Forget," Burton Rascoe autobiographs one as follows: "To my friend Odd McIntyre, to remind him that we have both forgotten that we once shield mud pies at each other. Affectionately, Burton Rascoe." Rascoe and I were newcomers to New York at the same time and for some unaccountable reason formed a Mutual Dislike Society. As such tiffs usually are, it was silly. We met after many years at a Corey Ford party in Hal Phyle's studio and in five minutes had swung out in a figurative waltz. Instead of swinging from the ankles. That usually happens to people who form pouts at long reach. They meet and that ends it.

That well nigh unbeatable song writing combination, Rodgers and Hart, have not let Hollywood go beglitter their vision. For some years they had long time contracts and enjoyed the leisure of such engagements. But their tunes were far apart, and, being creative artists, they chafed. Finally they gave Hollywood a merry ta ta and after a year of planning and hard work got back into stride and during the past year have turned in more hits than ever. Now they are signing Hollywood contracts for "three months only." And then they hie to New York and do a musical show.

Disillusionment: Twenty years ago I knew him and his bride in the first flush of their honeymoon. They were the sort who grew starry-eyed with mutual affection and in the lounge of the family hotel where all of us lived he was constantly gripping her hand in ecstatic quick squeezes. Our paths diverged and only occasionally did I see him about town. Last night he came to the next table in a restaurant, a bit bald and indulging the darting glances of the philanderer. With him was a practised charmer, with bright red nails, long green jade cigarette holder and chandelier ear-rings to here. They talked in low voices but once I could not help but overhear: "I have never been understood at home."

Burt MacBride tells of the W. P. A. chief who sent word to headquarters, his workers were out of shovels. The reply came back: "Tell the men to lean on each other; we are out of shovels."

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, September 1

The ruling planetary influences for this day make for lively and intriguing conditions, although this enterprise may be in relation to private interests, or to those forms of business or occupation involving social, artistic, domestic or romantic activities. An element of secrecy or subtlety is shown, probably in connection with mergers, combines or secret organizations. Their understandings thrive, but be careful with loans, speculation and shun extravagance and indulgence, as there are, social temptations.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a lively year, particularly in the private life, where social, artistic, domestic or affectional matters are paramount. But in all there loom the elements of intrigue and subtlety. Secret understandings or collusion may be of benefit, but be careful with loans, do not be imposed on and beware of excesses, extravagance and indulgence.

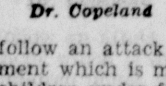

A child born on this day may have strong leanings toward social, domestic and romantic activities to the neglect of more sordid or practical affairs. Generally, it will lean toward the subtle, elusive and intriguing, with temptations to be overgenerous, indulgent and extravagant. It should be popular and friendly and may accumulate a fortune.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

MEASLES

OUR CHILDREN are born to trouble, just as we were. It is their fate to suffer certain common infectious diseases. Some are worse than others, but measles is regarded as the most trivial and is true that, in itself, measles is a mild disease. But it should never be accepted as unimportant. Not infrequently measles leads to serious complications.

Dr. Copeland

For example, pneumonia may follow an attack of measles, an ailment which is most common among children under five years of age. At this time of life, pneumonia is particularly serious. On this account, every precaution should be taken to guard the measles patient against complications.

There is another mistaken idea about measles. Years ago most mothers believed that certain childhood diseases were evils of childhood that could not be escaped. Indeed, many a mother actually exposed her child to the victim of some contagious disease so that the child would "catch" the ailment.

Dangerous Practice

This was a dangerous practice. There is no such thing as "having to have" a childhood disease. The wise thing is to avoid such infections.

In one child the attack of measles may be trivial. When "caught" from the same case, it may be unusually serious in another. Some children possess certain "immunities" or natural powers of resistance against germs. Others do not possess this protection and, on taking the disease, run a disturbing and serious spell of illness.

It is best to take every precaution against having your youngster contract measles or other contagious disease. A child who is known to be afflicted with an infectious disease should be kept away from the other children. The mother or attendant should take every known precaution to prevent spreading the disease.

Often the true nature of the disease is overlooked. In its early stages measles closely resembles a simple head cold. The eyes are red and the nose runs. There may be a slight cough, with fever.

The disease is readily recognized at about the fifth to seventh day when a characteristic rash appears on the skin. It is seen first at the sides of the face, behind the ears and on the neck. This rash confirms the diagnosis and indicates the need of careful attention.

"THE CAPTIVE BRIDE"

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER XXXIV

Denny hurried down the road toward the river level, and made her way to the farthest cabin, where she saw Stebbins' huskies tethered to the bank. In answer to her knock the door was opened by the trapper's wife.

"I'm Mrs. Bourne," Denny introduced herself. "Might I come in and speak with Mr. Stebbins?"

"What for your wanting him?" The native eyed her with sudden hostility.

Denny drew herself up a little haughtily. "I have business with him. I wish to employ him."

"Uh! You pay?"

"Certainly I shall pay! Now please let me in." She sent an apprehensive glance up the slope toward River House, fearing that Bourne and the Commander might be in sight.

The woman stepped aside. "You fetch Stebbins."

When he arrived he greeted Denny guardedly.

"I heard you are going down to Wrangell, Mr. Stebbins," Denny began. "I'd like to take passage with you."

"Since when does Rev. Bourne's wife come to me with the offer of a job?" he asked with an oblique glance of appraisal.

"My request is clear enough, I'm sure. Do you, or don't you wish to earn a good fee by taking me down to the coast?"

"I'm no fool, missus." He shuffled his feet uneasily. "I know there's a catch in this somewhere. Rev. Bourne would never throw a job like this my way."

Denny shrank from taking the man further into her confidence, but she had no choice in the matter. "It is I, not Captain Bourne, who engage you," she responded coldly. "And it is I who will pay you when the trip is over. Captain Bourne—knows nothing about this; and—and I do not wish him to know. Nor any one else; you understand."

"Oh, ho!" The man's pale eyes narrowed in a look of cunning comprehension. "Well, that's a horse of another color." After a moment's calculation, he went on. "Sure, I'll take you down. Five hundred dollars for the trip, and no questions asked."

"Good. I wish to start at once."

"No, lady. Can't do that. You see, I came to town to do a little celebrating. If you want to go with me, you'll have to wait until after Christmas."

Denny hesitated. Her instincts warned her against having anything to do with the man. She wasn't afraid of him—her class consciousness prevented that—but he affected her unpleasantly. Then she reminded herself that he was her only hope of escape. He would have his wife with him on the trip, and he owned the finest team of dogs she had seen in the country.

"What more could she ask?" "All right," she decided. "I'll see you the day after Christmas and fix the exact date of departure. And remember, I'm paying for your silence as well as for your services."

"Don't worry about that, Mrs. Bourne. I never blab, even when I'm drunk. You leave everything to me. How are you fixed for warm clothes? Got a sleeping bag?"

"No. You may buy what I need and I'll pay you later."

"Suits me. I can get a sleeping bag at the Hudson's Bay store. He slouched along by her side as she moved toward the door and, with unexpected, incongruous courtesy, turned the knob for her.

Before she stepped out, she glanced quickly up the slope, seeing no sign of Bourne anywhere about, she hurried along the creek toward the main road.

As she passed the open door of the church, she paused to look in, and her heart gave a leap of apprehension. The Commander and Bourne, their backs toward her, were inside the vestibule, apparently inspecting the decorating that was in progress.

She hastened on up the road, tormented by doubt. Had he seen her coming from Stebbins' cabin?

When she reached River House, she ran into the kitchen and asked Honey-Jo when Bourne and the Commander had left the house.

"Search me!" exclaimed the housekeeper making fork marks around the crust of a thick pumpkin pie. "I've been so busy with my baking I didn't notice."

Denny went slowly upstairs, racked by uncertainty.

When she reached her own quarters she moved about, trying to select the number of articles she could take with her in the single bag allowed for her trip. But her mental turmoil brought on a headache. She finally gave up and lay down on the couch in her sitting room. Her last thought before she fell into a deep sleep was that she would have a bona fide excuse for staying home from the Christmas Eve festival at the church.

It was dark when she awakened. The first thing she heard was the voice of Honey-Jo coming from Harp's room across the hall. "For Pete's sake, Harp! Stop fussing with those whiskers; and hold still till I get this pillow stuffed in your front!"

"Doggone my wild nature, I can't! They're tickling me!"

"Tickling nothing. Quit scowling now! I declare, you look more like Old Nick than Saint Nick! But I'll pad your skinny frame until it looks jolly, if I have to use a mattress."

"Awh, have a heart, Baby-doll! Paddings all right in its place. I like a woman with a bit of padding on her little bones, like you, Honey-Jo, but—"

"Don't be nonsensical. Shut your eyes now, while I rouge your cheeks. . . . Certainly, I have to paint your nose! I ought to know how to fix Santa Claus up, when I've been making up Larry Keith in the part for the past fifteen years. . . . If you don't stop wiggling, I'll slap you, so I will!"

"Oh, gosh! I don't want to play Santa Claus! I—"

"Listen, worm! You ought to feel honored, helping the skipper carry on Larry Keith's ways. . . . There! Thank heaven you're fixed. And just in time. I hear the sleigh bells."

Bourne's got the dog team loaded with your pack at the kitchen door, all ready for you to drive down to the church. Be sure you don't forget your speech now. . . . Come along now. . . . Come along."

Denny lay, warm and drowsy on her couch, listening. Thumps, admonitions, and recriminations, indicated the progress of the pair down the steps. Other sounds, oddly home-like and pleasant, came to her: Bourne in his room, dressing for the evening at the church, humming "A la Claire Fontaine." Alderbrook and Pinecone in the hall, talking and laughing in low, happy tones. The pad of Tongass' feet, as he waited outside his master's door.

In a vague way she was glad that Bourne was keeping up the traditions established by her father. Yet all this fuss over the entertainment of a handful of Indian youngsters appeared somewhat childish to her. Why should everyone wear that air of happiness and subdued excitement here where it was impossible to buy a single Christmas present?

Even Rio seemed to have forgotten her grievances and had entered into the spirit of the evening, for Denny heard her now down the hall. "Hello, Van! How come you're not dressed for the party?"

The doctor answered acridly. "I'm sufficiently bored with my own society tonight without seeking an association with even more vacuous minds."

"Oh, come, Van! The Commander's just about hardened his arteries getting his show ready. It wouldn't be sporting to leave him playing only to the gallery. Look at me—I've put on my best evening gown—here's hoping it doesn't bust out at the seams before I get back. Why not doll up a little yourself and we'll give the town a treat? Denny can't come on account of a headache, so San Francisco won't be represented. But Philadelphia and New York in the dress circle will make up in class for what we lack in numbers."

Apparently Van Cleve distained an audible answer to this, for Denny heard Rio go alone downstairs.

Presently Bourne's laugh came up from below as he marshaled his household through the front door. The cheerful, noisy sounds of departure died away and the house grew still; so still that Denny could hear the occasional cracking of frost in the walls. Loneliness, tinged with a sense of grievance, began to invade her. Forgetting her own strict order that she was not to be disturbed, she began to think, forlornly, that no one cared whether she went to the Christmas tree or not. None of these people were in sympathy with her. Least of all, Revelry Bourne, who had been going about all day, like a big male Pollyanna, she thought scornfully, making other people happy.

She had been his wife for over two months and she knew no more about him now than she did that night she had met him in the grove by the river. She was actually better acquainted with Van Cleve than she was with her own husband!

The realization was a little startling. Her mind went back over their association during the past two weeks. The doctors' helplessness, his silent suffering, had brought out in her an unexpected capacity for personal, sympathetic service.

Who would take care of him when she was gone? The thought saddened her for a moment. Then she got up from the couch and in shaking back her hair, found that her headache had vanished.

"It's Christmas Eve," she reminded herself. "I suppose I should dress up a little." She put on her coral dinner gown. "My wedding dress!" She made a grimace at the girl who looked at her from the mirror. "What a gosh-awful color to be married in!"

As she slipped her feet into her silver slippers, it occurred to her that it might be well, since everyone was out of the house, to go down to the card room and look over a map of the Stikine so that she might have some idea of the route she was to travel when she set forth with Stebbins.

When she was bending over the map on the card-room table she remembered how, as a little girl, she had traced in her school geography that same wavering black line that represented her father's river. The thought seemed to bring Larry Keith very close to her. She got out his dividers and parallel rules, and though she had never before handled such instruments, began to make a miniature map of the route to take with her; one which gave the location of cabins along the way and the distances between them.

As she worked, she marveled that she should so readily understand how to go about this. She thought, with pride, "Perhaps it's the Keith spirit in me that knows these things." The fancy pleased her and gave her confidence that she would prove a good traveler "on the trail."

FAIR SCHEDULES HEALTH JUDGING

Four-H Boys and Girls To Be "Subjects" At Columbus Today

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31.—With county and independent fair officials as special guests, the Ohio State fair went into one of its big days today with Director of Agriculture Earl H. Hanefeld predicting the attendance would exceed 60,000.

More than 30,000 women and children, admitted free, crowded into the grounds Monday with some 20,000 others for a 50,000 total.

One of the attractions today was the start of judging 95 boys and girls—all county champions—to decide the healthiest 4-H boy and girl in Ohio, the winners to get free trips to Chicago in December to compete at the National Boys and Girls club congress. The Ohio winners will be announced Friday.

A lightweight horse pulling contest, sheep shearing contest, grand circuit racing, dress revue, night horse show, "World on Parade," livestock judging, and 4-H judging and demonstrations were other features.

Plan Building Program With exhibit space at a premium this year and many prospective exhibitors turned away, Hanefeld announced a building program for the fairgrounds, subject to approval of the legislature.

Purchase of 25 acres of land and construction of four new buildings—including a large structure to house the junior fair—are included in the plan, which would cost about $750,000.

A committee of horsemen appointed by Hanefeld upheld a judge's decision giving the five-year-old Belgian stallion championship to a six-year-old owned by H. C. Horneman of Danville, Ill.

Emil G. Buchsleb of Columbus filed the protest, claiming the winner was lame. The committee decided the lameness was only temporary and should not disqualify the horse, Buchsleb's stallion, Farceur du Marais, won second place.

The grand championship and senior stallion championship went to Tommy Farceur, three-year-old owned by C. O. House of Arcadia, Ind.

Charles A. Wentz & Sons of Upper Sandusky won first honors for Belgian studs with their Terror Du Nord.

E. Liverpool Youth In Juvenile Court

LISBON, Aug. 31.—Delbert Stephens, 16, living east of East Liverpool, was turned over to Columbiana county juvenile court officials here today after he is alleged to have shot his brother, Irwin, 17, Monday afternoon.

Delbert, a former Lancaster boys' school inmate, probably will be returned to the institution as a parole violator, it was indicated.

The younger Stephens boy shot his brother during an altercation at their home, near the Ohio-Pennsylvania border.

Police Chief Hugh McDermott, of East Liverpool, who heard the shotgun blast as he drove past their home, arrested Delbert.

The defendant admitted he shot his brother during a quarrel over a bucket of water. Irwin is in East Liverpool City hospital, but his condition is not considered serious.

The youth was placed in the custody of John McShane, probation officer.

OLD TIMERS WIN FIRST SOFTBALL SERIES TILT

Tommy Farr Earns Respect As Joe Louis Keeps Title In Heavyweight Battle

EMMANUELS COP FIRST GAME OF JUNIOR SERIES

League Play-offs Continue Tonight At Reilly Field

A matter of one small victory separates the battling Old Timers today from the 1937 championship of the Class A Softball league.

That triumph may be gained by the veterans out at Reilly stadium tonight when they continue warfare with Mullins. Foremen, the team they defeated, 10 to 6, in the first game of the Class A league's championship series at Reilly field last night.

And unless the Foremen show enough of the power which in the past has made them the Class A league's leading team, the Old Timers can be counted on to tuck away the championship in tonight's contest.

The veterans clearly demonstrated last night that they have the stuff to make a champion. They trailed for the first three innings of the contest, then in a sudden hitting spurt, typical of their play all season, they forged out in front with five runs in the last half of the fourth inning.

The Foremen held the lead in the first three frames of the after-dark game on the strength of Charlie McCloskey's home run in the first half of the first inning.

After the Old Timers had staged their spree in the last half of the fourth, both teams scored in the fifth to make the count 6 to 3 with the veterans leading. Mullins tallied twice in the fifth frame and the Old Timers once.

The sixth inning produced the most heated action of the contest when Mullins rallied to tie the score at 6-6. The action, which nearly brought about a Louis-Farr rival fight at the stadium, was the result of what fans believed was a triple play, but what Umpire Ray Reasbeck ruled was merely a force out at second.

It all happened when the Foremen had the bases loaded with no one out and Pitcher Earl McNamee hit a low liner to Joe Kelley, play-ing second sack for the veterans. Kelley's glove and the ball met on the ground at the same time and it was difficult to tell whether he made the catch. However, Kelley rushed over to second, touched the No. 2 sack, then whipped the ball over to first.

The runners on both first and second had started to advance when the crack of the bat and Kelley's quick play caught them both off the bases.

It looked like a triple play and was announced as such until Umpire Reasbeck ruled that Kelley had not made the catch. McNamee's liner, thus there was only one out on the play, this a force out at second. Umpire Forest Bishop at first base ruled that McNamee was safe at the initial sack providing Kelley had not caught the liner.

At Calts scored for the Foremen on the play and two other runners crossed the plate shortly after when Jim Fitzpatrick slammed out a triple.

Although apparently peevish the veterans to no end, the disputed play did not cause them to fold up. They came back with a kind of punch in the last half of the sixth frame to again take the lead with four runs and then sewed up the victory by blanking Mullins in the first half of the seventh inning.

George (Slim) Earley worked the full route on the mound for the Old Timers, allowing nine hits. McNamee gave up 12 base blows.

Andy Filp of the Old Timers and Fitzpatrick of Mullins shared hitting honors in the contest with three bingles apiece.

Home runs by Mike Spack and Walter Linder paced the Emmanuel Lutherans to an 8 to 0 victory over the Columbians in the first game of the Class B championship series.

Martin Pauline's three-hit pitching held the Columbians scoreless, while the Emmanuel's brought in one run in the first inning, five markers in the fifth, one in the sixth and one in the seventh.

W. (Gabby) Guapone pitched the distance for the Columbians, granting nine hits.

The championship series in both leagues will continue at Reilly field tonight with the Emmanuel's and Columbians meeting in the first game at 7 and the Old Timers and Mullins battling at 8.

If the Emmanuel's and Old Timers both win the two series will end tonight.

Dr. R. A. Kidd of Columbus, Mrs. A. E. Reuben of Toledo and Virginia Penfield of Columbus led the Buckeye exhibitors in ribbon winning.

The Penfield winners were: Rhyma Fantasy, second in Class 25, Ohio-owned three-gaited saddle horses, mare or gelding, under 15.2 hands; Star Flower, fourth in Class 8, Ohio-owned five-gaited saddle horses, and Rhyma Fantasy, fourth in Class 32, saddle horses, three-year-old or under, fine harness, stallion, mare or gelding to appropriate vehicle; second, Royal Congress Lake farm, Canton; third, Sunny Belle, Elizabeth I. Firestone, Akron; fourth, Kenmore's Red Cloud, F. G. Strop and J. P. Gallier of Dayton.

WILSON TIGERS BEAT RAMBLERS

Armeni and Others Lead Wilson St. Nine To 22-5 Victory

Heavy hitting by Jim Armeni, King, Wright, Balesley and J. Drakulich paced the Wilson St. Tigers to a 22 to 5 victory over the Mickey Ramblers in a hardball game at Centennial park yesterday.

The Tigers hammered out 23 hits to score in all but three innings. Their biggest spree came in the fifth and eighth frames when they scored six runs.

The Ramblers were held to six hits by Pitcher Nocera of the Tigers. Mike Guapone worked on the mound for the Ramblers.

BROWN BOMBER DESERVED NOD IN HARD BOUT

Louis Was Better Fighter, But Farr Will Never Admit This

By GAYLE TALBOT.
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Joe Louis still has his heavyweight championship, and he also has a new and round-eyed respect for Tommy Farr.

So have 37,000 fans who sat in the lights and shadows of Yankee stadium last night and watched the old carnival fighter, half-blinded at the finish, jab and jimmy it out with the alleged Negro thunderbolt for 15 rounds.

Although they are without doubt hollering "robbery" around Fleet street today, there wasn't much doubt that the Brown bomber deserved the decision.

He did, as badly scared as he looked in spots. In fact, he looked as dumb as a dime detective most of the evening and he took a lot of fancy punches, first and last. He never learned how to fight Farr.

Yet he was the better man, and Tommy Farr will be the last to deny it. Tommy didn't deny it last night even as he sat and tried to look out between battered eyes and listened to the "rasberries" that echoed and re-echoed across Yankee stadium after Louis had been declared the winner.

Farr is a big man in the boxing game today, even though a loser. He can stay around—as he plans to do—and make himself a lot of money. He put up a great fight against a foe who was expected to knock him spraddle-legged, and when his best wasn't good enough he accepted defeat like a soldier.

At that, it must have been a thrill for the hard-battled fighter from the desolate mining district of Wales. No fighter who ever came to these shores received a sorrier reception. He was tabbed strictly a second-rater, a fighter who didn't belong in the same ring with the Ebon assassin, Louis. He must have felt good last night when, after he had given his stout-hearted best for 15 rounds, he groped his way toward the dressing room through thousands of Americans demanding the blood of referee, judges and anybody else who thought Louis had won.

But it didn't fool Tommy. He knew he had tried and failed, and he wasn't sore at anybody. The fight-writers expected him to rail at the decision, and to castigate them for the things they had written about him. Tommy didn't do either. He looked out between eyes that were swollen almost shut and said simply: "I gave them a good go, didn't I?" Tommy, then and there, made himself a lot of friends.

Referee Arthur Donovan credited the Welshman with only two rounds, just to show you how differently they can see things. This observer thought Farr won five rounds, that Louis won eight, and that there wasn't anything in the other two. The spectators from 10 rows on back thought Farr won the championship, by a country mile.

This much is certain: The old carnival scrapper put up a whale of a fight; he carried the carnage to Louis most of the way, and he undoubtedly would have won by a knockout if he had possessed a right-hand wallop to compare with Schmeling's.

There wasn't a knockdown. In the fifth round, after the crowd had done some booing, Louis whipped over a quick right to the jaw and followed with a left that staggered Farr, but the bell saved the Welshman from serious trouble. Those were perhaps the most damaging blows of the fight. Farr hurt Louis with several rights, but the Negro never looked like he was going down.

Louis naturally was disappointed with his showing. He had to admit that Farr was tough to hit. Farr, to give an idea, was able to lead with a swishing right whenever he wanted to, and to miss, and suffer no ill effects. He has been at the game a lot longer than Louis.

BALTIMORE—Ben Brown, 162, Atlanta, stopped Hobo Williams, 164, Alexandria, Va. (7).

Unofficially absent from the meeting was Oliver Olea, backfield star of last year's team upon whom Schroeder is counting heavily as the foundation of his backfield this season. Olea is now working in New York state and Schroeder was informed that he will probably be in Salem for practice next week.

Olea was the only letterman missing from the meeting. The other five—Mike Cerbu, Bill Schaeffer, Bob Kirchgesner, Bill Malloy and Charles Wentz—were all present and were issued suits.

Uniforms were given to the following other players: Carl Bauman, Richard Beck, James Benedict, Leonard Bonnell, Bill Brooks, Bob Clark, Bud Dean, Harold Fitzsimmons, Carroll Greene, Mike Guapone, Bill Kerr, Lester Krepp, Joe Kornbau, Bob Malloy, Milan Mileusnic, Robert Mileusnic, Bob Minamyer, Joe Morris, Julius Nestor, Leonard Piersol, Bill Rogers, Bob Sanders, Bob Shoe, Frank Stone, Richard Terry, Delbert Thomas, Warren Tullis, Joe Vender, Walter Wagoner, Lloyd Walker, Bud Walters, Don West, Stuart Wise, Clarence Woerther, Marvin Wukotich, Melvin Wukotich, and Ward Zeller.

Prospective gridgers who reported for the meeting but were unable to get suits were George Menough, Gale Stewart, George Baillie, Frank Davis, Frank King, Felix DeAntonio, Jim Nocera, Bob Umberger, George Wells, Walter Bolinger and John Carliello.

Schroeder told this last group that he expected more suits to be available by the time school opens.

OLD TIMERS WIN FIRST SOFTBALL SERIES TILT

Tommy Farr Earns Respect As Joe Louis Keeps Title In Heavyweight Battle

EMMANUELS COP FIRST GAME OF JUNIOR SERIES

League Play-offs Continue Tonight At Reilly Field

A matter of one small victory separates the battling Old Timers today from the 1937 championship of the Class A Softball league.

That triumph may be gained by the veterans out at Reilly stadium tonight when they continue warfare with Mullins. Foreman, the team they defeated, 10 to 6, in the first game of the Class A league's championship series at Reilly field last night.

And unless the Foreman show enough of the power which in the past has made them the Class A league's leading team, the Old Timers can be counted on to tack away the championship in tonight's contest.

The veterans clearly demonstrated last night that they have the stuff to make a champion. They trailed for the first three innings of the contest, then in a sudden hitting spurt, typical of their play all season, they forged out in front with five runs in the last half of the fourth inning.

The Foreman held the lead in the first three frames of the after-dark game on the strength of Charlie McClockey's home run in the first half of the first inning.

After the Old Timers had staged their spree in the last half of the fourth, both teams scored in the fifth to make the count 6 to 3 with the veterans leading. Mullins tallied twice in the fifth frame and the Old Timers once.

The sixth inning produced the most heated action of the contest when Mullins rallied to tie the score at 6-6. The action, which nearly brought about a Louis-Farr rival fight at the stadium, was the result of what was believed was a triple play, but what Umpire Ray Reasbeck ruled was merely a force out at second.

It all happened when the Foreman had the bases loaded with no one out and Pitcher Earl McNamee hit a low liner to Joe Kelley, playing second sack for the veterans. Kelley's glove and the ball met on the ground at the same time and it was difficult to tell whether he made the catch. However, Kelley rushed over to second, touched the No. 2 sack, then whipped the ball over to first.

The runners on both first and second had started to advance with the crack of the bat and Kelley's quick play caught them both off the bases.

It looked like a triple play and was announced as such until Umpire Reasbeck ruled that Kelley had not made the catch of McNamee's liner. Thus there was only one out on the play, this a force out at second.

Umpire Forest Bishop at first base ruled that McNamee was safe at the initial sack providing Kelley had not caught the liner.

At Calos scored for the Foreman on the play and two other runners crossed the plate shortly after when Jim Fitzpatrick slammed out a triple.

Although apparently peevish the veterans to no end, the disputed play did not cause them to fold up. They came back with all kinds of punch in the last half of the sixth frame to again take the lead with four runs and then sewed up the victory by blanking Mullins in the first half of the seventh inning.

George (Sim) Earley worked the full route on the mound for the Old Timers, allowing nine hits. McNamee gave up 12 base blows.

Andy Phip of the Old Timers and Fitzpatrick of Mullins shared hitting honors in the contest with three bingles apiece.

Home runs by Mike Spack and Walter Linder paced the Emaniels and Lutherans to an 8 to 0 victory over the Columbians in the first game of the Class B championship series.

Martin Pauline's three-hit pitching held the Columbians scoreless, while the Emaniels brought in one run in the first inning, five markers in the fifth, one in the sixth and one in the seventh.

W. (Gabby) Guapone pitched the distance for the Columbians, granting nine hits.

The championship series in both leagues will continue at Reilly field tonight with the Emaniels and Columbians meeting in the first game at 7 and the Old Timers and Mullins battling at 8.

If the Emaniels and Old Timers both win the two series will end tonight.

Ohio Stables Walk Off With Honors In Fair Horse Show

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31.—Ohioans held a score of ribbons today to show for the part their horses took in the first session of the state fair's nightly horse show.

While Delaine Hours, eight-year-old chestnut gelding from Delaine farm, Chicago, was taking first honors in the feature event, the $500 Old Time distillers stake for five-gaited horses, Ohio stables walked off with a flock of second, third and fourth places.

Dr. R. A. Kidd of Columbus, Mrs. A. E. Reuben of Toledo and Virginia Penfield of Columbus led the Buckeye exhibitors in ribbon winning.

Dr. Kidd's Hal Gay won first place in Class 2, roadsters, single, stallions or geldings, and his Sunlite placed second in Class 1, roadsters, single, mare, performance only.

Mrs. Reuben's Spring Night was fourth in Class 59, ladies' hunters; her Hasty Lassie was third in Class 53, modern hunters, shown in hand; her Margie McNeil was fourth in Class 67, hunters scurry, and her Spring Night was fourth in Class 61, hunters hack.

The Penfield winners were: Rhyma Fantasy, second in Class 25, Ohio-owned three-gaited saddle horses, mare or gelding, under 15.2 hands; Star Flower, fourth in Class 8, Ohio-owned five-gaited saddle horses, and Rhyma Fantasy, fourth in Class 32, saddle horses, three-

WILSON TIGERS BEAT RAMBLERS

Armeni and Others Lead Wilson St. Nine To 22-5 Victory

Heavy hitting by Jim Armeni, King, Wright, Balsey and J. Drakulich paced the Wilson St. Tigers to a 22 to 5 victory over the Mickey Ramblers in a hardball game at Centennial park yesterday.

The Tigers hammered out 23 hits to score in all but three innings. Their biggest spree came in the fifth and eighth frames when they scored six runs.

The Ramblers were held to six hits by Pitcher Nocera of the Tigers. Mike Guapone worked on the mound for the Ramblers.

BROWN BOMBER DESERVED NOD IN HARD BOUT

Louis Was Better Fighter, But Farr Will Never Admit This

By GAYLE TALBOT.
NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Joe Louis still has his heavyweight championship, and he also has a new and round-eyed respect for Tommy Farr.

So have 37,000 fans who sat in the lights and shadows of Yankee stadium last night and watched the old carnival fighter, half-blinded at the finish, jab and jimmy it out with the alleged Negro thunderbolt for 15 rounds.

Although they are without doubt hollering "robbery" around Fleet street today, there wasn't much doubt that the Brown ex-Bomber deserved the decision.

He did, as badly scared as he looked in spots. In fact, he looked as dumb as a dime detective most of the evening and he took a lot of fancy punches, first and last. He never learned how to fight Farr. Yet he was the better man, and Tonyrady Tommy will be the last to deny it. Tommy didn't deny it last night even as he sat and tried to look out between battered eyes and listened to the "raspberries" that echoed and re-echoed across Yankee stadium after Louis had been declared the winner.

Farr is a big man in the boxing game today, even though a loser. He can stay around—as he plans to do—and make himself a lot of money. He put up a great fight against a foe who was expected to knock him spraddle-legged, and when his best wasn't good enough he accepted defeat like a soldier.

At that, it must have been a thrill for the hard-boiled battler from the desolate mining district of Wales. No fighter who ever came to these shores received a sorrier reception. He was tabbed strictly a second-rater, a fighter who didn't belong in the same ring with the Ebon assassin. He must have felt good last night when, after he had given his stout-hearted best for 15 rounds, he groped his way toward the dressing room through thousands of Americans demanding the blood of referee, judges and anybody else who thought Louis had won.

But it didn't fool Tommy. He knew he had tried and failed, and he wasn't sore at anybody. The fight-writers expected him to rail at the decision, and to castigate the referee for the things he had written about him. Tommy didn't do either. He looked out between eyes that were swollen almost shut and said simply: "I gave them a good go, didn't I?" Tommy, then and there, made himself a lot of friends.

Referee Arthur Donovan credited the Welshman with only two rounds. Just to show you how differently they can see things. This observer thought Farr won five rounds, that Louis won eight, and that there wasn't anything in the other two. The spectators from 10 rows on back thought Farr won the championship, by a country mile.

This much is certain: The old carnival scrapper put up a whale of a fight; he carried the carnage to Louis most of the way, and he undoubtedly would have won by a knockout if he had possessed a right-hand walloper to compare with Schmeling's.

There wasn't a knockdown. In the fifth round, after the crowd had done some booing, Louis whipped over a quick right to the jaw and followed with a left that staggered Farr, but the bell saved the Welshman from serious trouble. Those were perhaps the most damaging blows of the fight. Farr hurt Louis with several rights, but the Negro never looked like he was going down.

Louis naturally was disappointed with his showing. He had to admit that Farr was tough to hit. Farr, to give an idea, was able to lead with a swishing right whenever he wanted to, and to miss, and suffer no ill effects. He has been at the game a lot longer than Louis.

BALTIMORE—Ben Brown, 162, Atlanta, stopped Hobo Williams, 164, Alexandria, Va. (7).

Conspicuously absent from the meeting was Oliver Olea, backfield star of last year's team upon whom Schroeder is counting heavily as the foundation of his backfield this season. Olea is now working in New York state and Schroeder was informed that he will probably be in Salem for practice next week.

Olea was the only letterman missing from the meeting. The other five—Mike Cerbu, Bill Schaeffer, Bob Kirchgesner, Bill Malloy and Charles Wentz—were all present and were issued suits.

Uniforms were given to the following other players: Carl Bauman, Richard Beck, James Benedict, Leonard Bonsall, Bill Brooks, Bob Clark, Bud Dean, Harold Fitzsimmons, Carroll Greene, Mike Guapone, Bill Kerr, Lester Krepp, Joe Kornbau, Bob Malloy, Milan Mileusnic, Robert Mileusnic, Bob Minamy, Joe Morris, Julius Nestor, Leonard Piersol, Bill Rogers, Bob Sanders, Bob Shoe, Frank Stone, Richard Terry, Delbert Thomas, Warren Tullis, Joe Vender, Walter Wagner, Lloyd Walker, Bud Walters, Don West, Stuart Wise, Clarence Woerther, Marvin Wukotich, Melvin Wukotich, and Ward Zeiler.

Prospective gridders who reported for the meeting but were unable to get suits were George Menough, Gale Stewart, George Baillie, Frank Davis, Frank King, Felix DeAntonio, Jim Nocera, Bob Umberger, George Wells, Walter Bolinger and John Carliello.

Schroeder told this last group that he expected more suits to be available by the time school opens.

Fight Results

NEW YORK—Joe Louis, 197, world's heavyweight champion, Detroit, outpointed Tommy Farr, 204½, British empire titleholder (15).

PITTSBURGH—Johnny (Bandit) Romero, 166, San Diego, Calif., outpointed Red Bruce, 170, Pittsburgh (10).

CHICAGO—Al Manfredi, 150, of Fresno, Calif., outpointed Mil Aron, 145½, Dubuque, Ia. (10).

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Cecil Payne, 138, Louisville, outpointed Ed Dominic Mancini, 135½, Louisville (10).

There wasn't a knockdown. In the fifth round, after the crowd had done some booing, Louis whipped over a quick right to the jaw and followed with a left that staggered Farr, but the bell saved the Welshman from serious trouble. Those were perhaps the most damaging blows of the fight. Farr hurt Louis with several rights, but the Negro never looked like he was going down.

Louis naturally was disappointed with his showing. He had to admit that Farr was tough to hit. Farr, to give an idea, was able to lead with a swishing right whenever he wanted to, and to miss, and suffer no ill effects. He has been at the game a lot longer than Louis.

BALTIMORE—Ben Brown, 162, Atlanta, stopped Hobo Williams, 164, Alexandria, Va. (7).

Conspicuously absent from the meeting was Oliver Olea, backfield star of last year's team upon whom Schroeder is counting heavily as the foundation of his backfield this season. Olea is now working in New York state and Schroeder was informed that he will probably be in Salem for practice next week.

Olea was the only letterman missing from the meeting. The other five—Mike Cerbu, Bill Schaeffer, Bob Kirchgesner, Bill Malloy and Charles Wentz—were all present and were issued suits.

Uniforms were given to the following other players: Carl Bauman, Richard Beck, James Benedict, Leonard Bonsall, Bill Brooks, Bob Clark, Bud Dean, Harold Fitzsimmons, Carroll Greene, Mike Guapone, Bill Kerr, Lester Krepp, Joe Kornbau, Bob Malloy, Milan Mileusnic, Robert Mileusnic, Bob Minamy, Joe Morris, Julius Nestor, Leonard Piersol, Bill Rogers, Bob Sanders, Bob Shoe, Frank Stone, Richard Terry, Delbert Thomas, Warren Tullis, Joe Vender, Walter Wagner, Lloyd Walker, Bud Walters, Don West, Stuart Wise, Clarence Woerther, Marvin Wukotich, Melvin Wukotich, and Ward Zeiler.

Prospective gridders who reported for the meeting but were unable to get suits were George Menough, Gale Stewart, George Baillie, Frank Davis, Frank King, Felix DeAntonio, Jim Nocera, Bob Umberger, George Wells, Walter Bolinger and John Carliello.

Schroeder told this last group that he expected more suits to be available by the time school opens.

Geers Stake Holds Attention At State Fair Racing Today

COLUMBUS, Aug. 31.—The $4,000 Geers stake for three-year-old pacers highlighted today's Grand Circuit racing card at the Ohio State fairgrounds, with six of the country's top-flighters nominated for the event.

Named in honor of the veteran driver, Edward E. (Pop) Geers who was killed at Wheeling, W. Heard, Not Seen WHEELING, W. Va.—The aged town clock will be heard but not seen.

City Manager Harry J. Humphrey ordered the top of the clock tower, containing the faces, dismantled. The lower part, housing the works, will remain and the hourly chimes will ring as usual.

Theater Attractions

Jane Withers, Robert Wilcox and Pauline Moore in "Wild and Woolly," showing at the State theater Wednesday and Thursday.

"Wild and Woolly," starring Jane Withers, and showing at the State tomorrow and Thursday, records the adventures of the young star when she attempts, in the story, to carry on a feud between her grandfather and Jackie Searl.

The cast includes Walter Brennan, character actor awarded the Academy award for his performance in "Banjo on My Knee"; Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer of the "Our Gang" comedies; Jackie Searl; Pauline Moore, Douglas Fowley, Robert Wilcox, Douglas Scott and Berton Churchill.

In Old Frontier City

The original screen play by Lynn Root and Frank Fenton opens in the old frontier town of Mesa City, which is about to celebrate its first Pioneer Day Jubilee. Jane has inherited the feud between her grandfather and Berton Churchill, unscrupulous town banker, carrying on with the latter's grandson, Jack Searl. Jane's chief stooge is Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer, of "Our Gang" fame. They call him "Zero," but he's a regular adding machine for laughs. Jack's aide is Douglas Scott, and both are rank tenderfeet.

Douglas Fowley plays the role of a big-city gangster out to help Banker Churchill in one of his nefarious enterprises. Their paths cross the romantic way of Pauline Moore and Robert Wilcox, who don't even know they're in love until Jane ropes them in!

Directed by Alfred Werker, with John Stone as associate producer, the film concerns itself with the perennial effort of grandpappy Brennan to defeat Churchill's candidate for sheriff, the fireworks and shenanigans of the jubilee celebration, and the foiling by Jane and her friends of an attempted bank robbery.

"Broadway Melody of 1938," with Eleanor Powell and Robert Taylor, concludes tonight at the State.

Two pictures will be seen Wednesday and Thursday at the Grand. They are: "London By Night," featuring George Murphy and Rita Johnson; and "Hideaway," starring Fred Stone.

The story of "London by Night" is played in London in an atmosphere of fog and intense mystery. Murphy appears as a young and determined reporter who solves a series of mysteries that baffle even Scotland Yard. Miss Johnson, as the daughter of a wealthy man who is involved in the plot, reveals the scope of artistry that made her a success on the stage.

Fred Stone is a shiftless but likable non-working former in his new starring picture, "Hideaway." He aims to please the fugitive gangsters who find refuge in his place and causes their outlaw plans to miscarry through his amiability.

"Bad Guy," with Bruce Cabot in the leading role, and "Think Fast, Mr. Moto" starring Peter Lorre, will be seen at the Grand for the last times tonight.

arose again in the most recent term.

Born March 4, 1859, at Jefferson Furnace, near Oak Hill, Jackson county, Jones was educated in public schools at Jackson and Ohio university. He was admitted to the bar in 1883 and first elected to the bench in 1900.

Appointed Mayor of Jackson to succeed Charles C. James when the latter was appointed Ohio penitentiary warden.

Japanese also claimed capture of the Shanghai Wusong railroad station. At least part of the Japanese massed aerial and artillery fire apparently was a frantic effort to close a gap in Japanese lines between Wusong and Luho, base of the wedge the invaders are attempting to drive southward toward mid-Shanghai.

Pollution, a food shortage verging on famine among war-stranded native refugees, and over-burdened water and sanitation resources created a disease menace against which Shanghai's foreign residents may find themselves defenseless.

Combat Epidemics Danger

Foreign and municipal authorities joined forces with emergency relief workers to combat the danger of epidemics, particularly the dreaded cholera to which the hunger-weakened Chinese are particularly susceptible.

Advices from Peiping said American consular officials in north China were alarmed for the safety of 99 United States missionaries who have not been heard from since the Tsinan consulate was evacuated Friday.

They and 40 others are believed to be caught before parallel Japanese columns advancing southward from Peiping and Tientsin. When Japanese evacuation of the northern port of Tientsin is completed, possibly today, there will be no escape from the war except by a long, hazardous land journey to the south.

In Geneva, Chinese delegates to the League of Nations placed the whole blame for the war on Japan's "irrevocable policy of military conquest and expansion. The Chinese called it "a case of aggression pure and simple," but framed their letter as a statement, not as an appeal for league action.)

Sheriff Charles Bewley said he found in the wreckage of the building six flashlight batteries, wired together, and that they apparently had been used to set off a charge of high explosive. He said he was without other clues and would turn the case over to the state fire marshal for investigation.

decked with flags and one huge banner said "Tommy Farr... Our Champion."

Those who had tickets went to Judge's hall for singing and dancing which lasted until the radio broadcast of the fight started early today.

Hush Settles Over Town

Others milled through the streets and finally closed in on a series of loudspeakers brought into town for the occasion.

An almost churchly hush settled upon Ton-y-pandy when the clipped tones of a British broadcaster at the ringside in New York started his picture of the fight. His words and the voices of women at prayer were the only things to break the listening silence.

After the decision, Dick Farr, Tommy's brother, who had a private radio party at his home, said: "Tell Tommy we're proud of him. At least he proved British boxers have grit."

Dawn broke cold and gray. It was fully daylight when the crowd finally started down from Treaw mountain. The women went ahead to fix breakfast. The men stoically drank their morning tea and went back to the mines.
